JOINT ARAB ISLAMIC EXTRAORDINARY SUMMIT

Amir: Stop Israeli war crimes in Gaza

تميم بن حمد
@TamimBinHamad

The ongoing war crime in Gaza requires our Islamic countries to take a firm stance and deterrent steps that are commensurate with the weight of our countries, and consistent with the position and feelings of our peoples regarding what is happening. Israel committing genocide crimes with such recklessness does not only harm Arab and Islamic national security, but also the national security of our countries.

QNA — RIYADH

Amir H H Sheikh Tamim bin Hamad Al Thani took part, with Their Majesties, Highnesses, and Excellencies Heads of State and delegations, in the Joint Arab Islamic Extraordinary Summit, which was held at the King Abdul Aziz International Conference Center in Riyadh yesterday.

The summit was attended by Prime Minister and Minister of Foreign Affairs H E Sheikh Mohammed bin Abdulrahman bin Jassim Al Thani along with Their Excellencies members of the official delegation accompanying H H the Amir, Their Highnesses and Excellencies members of participating delegations, representatives of regional and international organizations, and guests of the summit.

H H the Amir Sheikh Tamim

Who would have imagined that hospitals would be openly bombed in the twenty-first century, and that entire families would be erased from the records by the indiscriminate bombing of residential neighbourhoods and refugee camps, and that an entire people would be forcibly displaced with deplored and unacceptable plans to displace them.

As our hearts break with pain at the sight of the mass killing of children, women, and the elderly, and the human suffering, we wonder how long will the international community continue to treat Israel as if it is above international law.

bin Hamad Al Thani gave the following speech during the summit:

In the Name of God, the Most Gracious, the Most Merciful Your Majesties, Highnesses and Excellencies,

May Peace, Mercy and Blessings of God be upon you, At the beginning, I extend my thanks for the blessed efforts of the sisterly Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, led by the Custodian of the Two Holy Mosques, and His Highness Prince Mohammed bin Salman, the Crown Prince and Prime Minister, for this summit, which comes at a crucial time in the history of our region.

Our summit is being convened today while our Palestinian brothers in the Gaza Strip are bearing the brunt of the atrocities of the Israeli war machine in a way beyond human tolerance.

The international community has failed to shoulder its legal and moral responsibilities and take whatever action necessary to stop war crimes and massacres committed in the name of self-defence, and to put an end to this war of aggression.

As our hearts break with pain at the sight of the mass killing of children, women, and the elderly, and the human suffering, we wonder how long will the international community continue to treat Israel as if it is above international law, and how long will it be condoned to flout all international laws in its brutal, never-ending war on the country's indigenous population

What is happening in Gaza constitutes a threat at every level, and even at the level of wars of aggression there are precedents which are being

We are also continuing to support all regional and international diplomatic efforts for de-escalation, stemming the bloodshed, and protecting civilians, including making efforts in humanitarian mediation to release the hostages.

We demand that the United Nations send international teams to immediately investigate the Israeli allegations and claims used to justify the bombing of hospitals, although there is no justification for such a crime.

recorded. How did bombing hospitals become a normal thing. At first it is denied and the victims are accused, then it is justified by the existence of tunnels underneath these places, then it becomes something that does not need to be justified after feelings become blunted and eyes become acclimated to seeing tragedies. These are unparalleled things.

We found in this war or before it, during the siege of Gaza, a noticeable increase in the levels of immunity among some countries that claim to protect international law and the world order.

We have seen their immunity to the scenes of indiscriminate killing of Palestinian civilians, whether children or women, as well as the bombing of hospitals and shelters, no longer affecting them, and their levels of immunity have reached the point of seeing the bodies of innocent people being eaten by dogs, and these countries do not do anything. Glory be to God, the strength of immunity is only against our Palestinian brothers.

By allowing their justification, the international system fails itself before it fails us. Who would have imagined that hospitals would be openly bombed in the twenty-first century, and that entire families would be erased from the records by the indiscriminate bombing of residential neighbourhoods and refugee camps, and that an entire people would be forcibly displaced with deplored and unacceptable plans to displace them. All this unfolds in full view of the world. This is coupled with blatant racist statements by Israeli leaders that are not denounced by their allied countries' leaders.

The State of Qatar is unflinching in its historical position in support of the steadfastness of the brotherly Palestinian people and their just cause.

We continue, with our partners in the region and the international community, to provide humanitarian aid and work to expedite its delivery to those in need, despite continuous Israeli intransigence to hinder it.

In this regard, we demand that safe humanitarian corridors be permanently opened to allow for an unhindered and unconditional delivery of aid to those affected and afflicted.

We categorically reject the use of arbitrariness in providing humanitarian aid and threatening to bomb it as a means of pressure and political blackmail. We stress the need to make this aid accessible to all parts of the Gaza Strip. This is the weakest level of faith, and the least that we can all do.

We are also continuing to support all regional and international diplomatic efforts for de-escalation, stemming the bloodshed, and protecting civilians, including making efforts in humanitarian mediation to release the hostages.

We hope to reach a humanitarian truce in the near future to spare the Strip from further worsening of the humanitarian catastrophe that has befallen it.

BILATERAL RELATIONS

'Room for growth in Qatar-Angola ties'

AYENI OLUSEGUN
THE PENINSULA

As Angola marks its 48th Independence Day (November 11), the country's envoy to Qatar noted that both countries have room for expanding bilateral and economic ties.

Ambassador H E Antonio Coelho Ramos da Cruz, in a statement to The Peninsula, said both countries established diplomatic relations in 2006 and have since maintained significant relations, including high-level visits that have strengthened political ties and cooperation in regional and international affairs, without detracting from economic activity.

Cruz cited the official visit of the Angolan President H E João Manuel Gonçalves Lourenço to Doha in 2019, during which several agreements were signed.

"Since the signing of the various cooperation agreements, the two countries have used the economic aspect as a fundamental tool to create a favourable environment for investment and business. In addition to the energy sector, Angola offers opportunities in the mineralogy, agriculture, infrastructure and tourism sectors without losing sight of education and culture," stated Cruz, whose country's embassy in Doha opened in February this year.

"The bilateral relationship is concentrated in the energy sector (oil and gas) where Qatar, one of the largest producers and exporters of these commodities, is interested in investing in agriculture, mineralogy, infrastructure and tourism. Although the level of diplomatic relations has evolved positively with a focus on the energy sector, the potential for cooperation between the two countries has not yet reached the levels of development we want, but there is plenty of room for progress," he added.

Both countries' agreements include a protocol for establishing political consultation mechanisms to share and harmonise positions on bilateral, regional, continental and international issues. There is also an agreement to abolish visas for diplomatic and special passports. Recently, Angola exempted Qatari citizens from short-term tourist visas for up to 30 days per entry and 90 days annually.

Meanwhile, other agreements cover a mutual promotion and protection of investments based on the sustainable economic development of the parties. ➔P3

PM, US Secretary of State discuss Gaza ceasefire, aid efforts

QNA — DOHA

Prime Minister and Minister of Foreign Affairs H E Sheikh Mohammed bin Abdulrahman bin Jassim Al Thani received a phone call from US Secretary of State H E Antony Blinken yesterday.

The deteriorating situation in the Gaza Strip was discussed during the phone call.

During the call, the Prime Minister and Minister of Foreign underscored the need for concerted regional and international diplomatic efforts to reach an immediate ceasefire and to permanently open the Rafah crossing to ensure the flow of relief and humanitarian aid convoys to the Palestinian people besieged in the Gaza Strip.

The Prime Minister and Minister of Foreign stressed Qatar's continued mediation efforts to release hostages, noting that the continued bombing doubles the humanitarian catastrophe in the strip and complicates the efforts being made.

We also condemn in the strongest possible terms the targeting of health and educational facilities and justify this with groundless allegations. In this context, we demand that the United Nations send international teams to immediately investigate the Israeli allegations and claims used to justify the bombing of hospitals, although there is no justification for such a crime.

Honourable audience,

You all know the position and feelings of our people regarding what is happening, and there is no need to elaborate on the matter. Difference over this or that issue should not be a justification for disagreement over taking a firm stance vis-a-vis the ongoing crime in Gaza, nor should we be satisfied with denunciation and condemnation statements. Rather, we must take deterrent steps to stop the ongoing war crime, in a way that will also project the weight and leverage of Islamic states. Israel's continuation of its aggression and committing crimes of genocide with such recklessness will not harm only Arab and Islamic national security, but also the national security of our countries.

In conclusion, we stress that the only sustainable solution to this issue is the one that establishes the foundations of justice in accordance with the resolutions of international legitimacy and the Arab Peace Initiative, and this is the solution that the international community have called for, and which we adhere to out of our conviction in the right of the Palestinian people to enjoy goodness and well-being and the right to self-determination concerning its independent state.

And because we believe that the Israeli plans in the aftermath of this criminal war are a repetition of its colonial policies that have thwarted all peace initiatives and even agreements and led to all these crises.

The basic thing is that it refuses to recognize the rights of the Palestinian people, and only thinks about security arrangements while continuing the colonialist mentality and its practices towards the indigenous people.

The international community's failure to oblige Israel to stop the ongoing crime during our meeting is a license to continue this disastrous approach.

May Peace, Mercy and Blessings of God be upon you.

Besides, there is a comprehensive agreement in the sectors of industry, mining, energy, agriculture, communications, transport, construction, labour and tourism.

Qatar and Angola also have a memorandum of understanding between the Qatar Ports Management Company (Mwani) and the Maritime Port Institute of Angola (IMPA) for managing port and maritime systems in Angola. In oil and gas, QatarEnergy has been investing in the Angolan oil sector since 2020.

Also, there is a tender for the concession to manage the terminals at the Port of Lobito

(for general cargo and containers and the mineral terminal), the Port of Luanda and other opportunities, both in Cabinda and Namibe.

This agreement will allow Qatari ships to transport Liquefied Natural Gas (LNG) exported by Angola from the Angola LNG plant in Soyo, in the province of Zaire.

According to the envoy, the priority is to facilitate the implementation of the agreements and cooperation protocols that have been signed, create conditions to strengthen cooperation between the two countries and promote greater awareness of Angola and the countless opportunities it offers to investors, business people and Qatari society in general.

He disclosed that the main aim is to sign an agreement establishing the 'Bilateral Commission' between Angola and Qatar – a process he noted is well 'advanced.'

"More than just signing these instruments, we are evaluating the means of implementing trade cooperation mechanisms between the countries, and at the same time, we are aiming in the first half of 2024 to hold the Bilateral Joint Commission. This will be a time when more senior officials from the two countries can meet again," he added.

THE PENINSULA – DOHA

Professor Mariam Al Ali Al Maadeed, Vice President for Research and Graduate Studies at Qatar University praised the speech of Amir H H Sheikh Tamim bin Hamad Al Thani at the Joint Arab Islamic Extraordinary Summit.

“The speech was important and courageous and consistent with Qatar’s firm position toward the Arab core issue, the cause of Palestine,” said Professor Al Maadeed.

She added that the speech was directed to the international community to remind stakeholders of their legal and moral responsibilities regarding the killing and destruction taking place in Gaza by Israeli occupation forces.

unwavering support of the state of Qatar to the Palestinians and their justice cause,” she further said.

Dr. Fatima Ali Hussain Al Kubaisi, Associate Professor - Dean of College of Arts and Science (CAS) at Qatar University, said that H H the Amir’s speech at the Joint Arab Islamic Extraordinary Summit in Riyadh yesterday was comprehensive and found good response among the Arab people because he spoke openly describing the ongoing Israel aggression on the Palestinians in Gaza Strip as collective punishment and called the happenings in their real names that reflect the true situation.

She said: “H H the Amir explained that the Israeli aggression on Gaza violated all humanitarian laws and norms and international agreements by the bombing of hospitals and the annihilation of families through its mass murder of the Palestinian people.”

“Amir H H Sheikh Tamim bin Hamad Al Thani pointed out the way the international community is handling the war in Gaza which is disappointing. The international community has failed to deter Israel from the ongoing aggression on civilians,” she further said.

The Dean of CAS noted that the Arab people followed the visits of H H the Amir to three Arab countries, namely UAE, Egypt and Saudi Arabia. “The Arab people sensed the keenness of Qatar’s leadership to deter aggression against the Palestinians and Qatar’s adherence to the rights of the Palestinian people, and this was clearly emphasized in H H’s speech during the Joint Arab Islamic Extraordinary Summit.”

“H H the Amir spoke about the miserable situation of the people in Gaza rejecting the unjust Israeli practices against the Palestinian people, calling for action at all levels to deter this injustice against the Palestinian civilians. The diplomatic movement carried out by Qatar and the speech of His Highness confirms that the State of Qatar is represented by its leadership and its people, adopting the Palestinian cause and keen to restore its position among Arab and Islamic issues by supporting the rights of the Palestinian people and deterring Israeli aggression,” Fatima Al Kubaisi said.

Dr. Talal Abdulla Al Emadi, Dean of College of Law at Qatar University, lauded the speech H H the Amir delivered yesterday at the Joint Arab Islamic Extraordinary Summit.

“The Amir of the State of Qatar, H H Sheikh Tamim bin Hamad Al Thani, delivered a very powerful speech. While highlighting Qatar’s unconditional solidarity with the Palestinian people, he insisted that international organisations and states should take all necessary measures to prevent further crimes from happening,” Dr Al Emadi said in a statement.

“H H the Amir reiterated that foundational principles of international humanitarian law must be respected in times of war. He emphasized the principle of distinction, according to which only military objectives can be targeted. Hospitals, safety zones and other civil objects are immune from attack. In his insightful speech, the Amir also underlined that Qatar is committed to supporting any de-escalation efforts via diplomatic means.”

Dr. Al Emadi said that the Summit resulted in a resolution consisting of 31 clauses. “The resolution strongly condemns Israeli aggression against Palestine and stresses that the commission of international crimes, including war crimes, shall stop. Furthermore, Arab-Islamic leaders called on the international community and the United Nations, in particular the Security Council to take action to stop these crimes and hold Israel accountable.”

He added: “It is worth noting that there are several competent international commissions of inquiry for the situation in Palestine. These international bodies should continue their fact-finding efforts to accumulate evidence proving the atrocities that have been taking place. This evidence can certainly assist the Prosecutor of the International Criminal Court in his ongoing investigation on the situation in Palestine and the occupied territories.”

Ambassador of Türkiye to Qatar, H E Dr. Mustafa Göksu (pictured) has lauded the speech of Amir H H Sheikh Tamim bin Hamad Al Thani at the joint Arab-Islamic summit held in Riyadh yesterday.

Ambassador stressed what was stated in H H the Amir’s speech regarding the necessity of permanently opening safe humanitarian crossings to deliver aid to the affected in Gaza without any obstacles or conditions.

He noted that the international community had failed in the test after the recent events in Gaza, which H H the Amir said, “The international community has failed to assume its legal and moral responsibilities and take action to stop war crimes and massacres committed in the name of self-defense, and put an end to this aggressive war.”

Meanwhile, the Ambassador said that Doha and Ankara agree on what H H the Amir said about the firm and historical position of Qatar in support of the steadfastness of the brotherly Palestinian people and their just cause.

Göksu also praised Qatar’s efforts to reduce the escalation, which H H the Amir stated, “We are continuing to support all regional and international diplomatic efforts to reduce the escalation, stop bloodshed, and protect civilians, including making efforts in humanitarian mediation to release the hostages, and we hope to reach a humanitarian truce in the near future to curb the worsening humanitarian catastrophe.”

Shura Council participates in Asian parliamentary meeting in Baghdad

QNA – BAGHDAD

The Shura Council participated in the meeting of the Standing Committee on Political Affairs of the Asian Parliamentary Association (APA), which was held the Iraqi capital, Baghdad.

Their Excellencies Members of the Shura Council Eng. Ahmed bin Hitmi Al Hitmi and Nasser bin Mutarrif Al Humaidi, represented the Council at the meeting.

During the meeting, members of the bureau were elected. The meeting also reviewed the report of the Secretary-General of the APA on the work of the committee, and discussed a number of draft resolutions.

The attendees agreed that one topic would be raised during the meeting, as they unanimously agreed to choose the Israeli aggression against Gaza and the genocide and massacres that the Palestinian people are subjected to as the topic of discussion.

The meeting issued a statement, in which the committee affirmed the right of the Palestinian people to struggle and legitimate resistance by all available means in order to establish the independent State of Palestine with Jerusalem as its capital, and the right of return of the refugees who were displaced from Palestine in 1948 in accordance with UN General Assembly Resolution 194.

The statement called for an immediate and unconditional halt to all forms of hostilities, an end to the unjust siege on Gaza, and the delivery of urgent relief aid to the Palestinian people.

Attendees of the meeting also stressed the necessity of establishing a fund for the reconstruction of cities destroyed by the Israeli entity, calling on the international community to adopt unified standards in dealing with similar issues, and to put pressure on the Israeli side to stop the war immediately and adhere to international humanitarian laws and conventions.

The statement called for supporting granting Palestine full membership in the United Nations, and rejecting and stopping the Israeli entity’s plans aimed at annexing the entire Palestinian Jordan Valley region, the northern Dead Sea, and the settlements in the occupied Palestinian territories.

The attendees expressed their rejection of the Israeli entity’s plans aimed at displacing the people of Gaza and the West Bank outside the borders of the Palestinian state.

The statement stressed the necessity of ending the occupation and aggression of the Israeli entity on all Palestinian, Syrian and Lebanese territories, to achieve peace, stability and prosperity in the Middle East.

SYMPOSIUM

‘Continuous engagement with Taliban key to solving issues’

Gailani stressed that the Muslim world has a responsibility to talk to the Taliban and find a solution to the problem.

AYENI OLUSEGUN
THE PENINSULA

More than two years after the Taliban took control of Afghanistan on August 15, 2021, with no formal recognition from any country, engagement with the Taliban remains the right way to go, the former head of the Afghan Red Crescent Society has stressed.

Fatima Gailani, a prominent member of the peace negotiators and one of only four women in the 21-member team for the Doha Peace talks, has urged that keeping the line open and engaging with the Taliban remain the key to solving widespread issues in the strife-hit country.

Speaking to The Peninsula on the sidelines of the ‘Afghanistan Regional Symposium: Confronting the Impasse’ organised by Georgetown University Qatar (GU-Q), Gailani said previous discussions have yielded some results.

“From outside, Afghanistan is seeing what impact engagement has had on the behaviour of the Taliban. Over and over again, we will insist on things that we know from the Islamic point of view on what is important,” Gailani said.

“Moreover, there are millions of women in Afghanistan that if an imam from Mecca or Medina or a huge personality or a delegation from Al Aqsa or Ulama from Qatar and Türkiye – when they visit and hold conversations with the Taliban, millions of women in Afghanistan know that they are not left alone in their struggles. The impact of these engagements is profound because, if you talk with the ministers of Taliban now compared to two years ago, it’s a totally different point of education view,” she added.

Last year, the Taliban banned education for girls beyond the sixth grade, and the United Nations (UN) children’s agency recently disclosed that over one million girls are affected by the ban. However, estimates put five million already out of school before the Taliban takeover due to a lack of facilities and other reasons.

Women and girls have also been excluded from public spaces like parks and most jobs. The ban has triggered global condemnation, with many Muslim countries calling the move un-Islamic.

Gailani stressed that the Muslim world has a responsibility to talk to the Taliban and find a solution to the problem. According to Gailani, it is imperative to keep the engagement going because, as Muslims, education is not just a right; it is a duty.

“It is my duty as a Muslim woman to be educated and to work. There is also a contradiction from the people outside Afghanistan. There are many institutions where women are allowed to work and study. Moraa University has a capacity of 10,000 students and only 80 students presently. What is the excuse?” Gailani stressed.

Meanwhile, the one-day symposium brought together leading experts, scholars, and policymakers to share deep insights on the fundamental challenges facing Afghanistan and the rest of the world since the Taliban regained government control in 2021. Discussions advanced valuable analysis on solutions that can support the social and economic aspirations of the Afghan people.

In his remarks, the dean of GU-Q, Dr. Safwan Masri, said, “The people of Afghanistan face an oncoming humanitarian and economic crisis that is more urgent than ever. “While international support for humanitarian aid is essential, it alone cannot fully address the underlying causes of Afghanistan’s deteriorating situation, including the nation’s political strife, ongoing conflicts, and the intervention of external factors and actors.”

“Having this particular conversation in Doha is especially important given the mediation role that Qatar has played in Afghanistan. There is a moral and pragmatic demand for the international community to assume responsibility for the country’s recovery,” he added.

Also, a panel session including Gailani, Suleiman bin Shah, founder and CEO of the Kabul-based Catalysts.Af, Ambassador Melanne Vermeer, Director of the Georgetown Institute for Women, Peace and Security, and Hamed Hakimi from the Atlantic Council analysed how engagement can help women access available education pathways, safeguard their fundamental rights, and the need for transformative education.

Other sessions covered “Reporting from Conflict Zones: Media Resilience in Afghanistan,” “Afghanistan Imagined by Afghans,” and “Climate Change and Natural Resource Governance.”

QRCS conducts general surgery project for children in Jordan

THE PENINSULA – DOHA:

In partnership with Jordan National Red Crescent Society (JNRCS), the representation mission of Qatar Red Crescent Society (QRCS) in Jordan is implementing a general pediatric surgery project in Amman.

Coordinated with the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR), The project has a total budget of $91,496 (QR333,503), donated by the benevolent people of Qatar.

The project is aimed at improving the health conditions of Syrian and Jordanian children with health problems who need surgical interventions. To that end, general surgery operations are being performed free of charge by a team of local medical professionals, for the benefit of 76 boys and girls.

Since the launch of the project in mid-September, the team has made an agreement with the implementing partner, JNRCS, and coordinated with UNHCR to refer the patients who needed general surgeries.

A public invitation was announced for Syrian refugees out of camps, the poorest Jordanians from the host community, and vulnerable groups from other nationalities in Jordan.

Then, the candidates received medical examinations and assessment, to ensure their eligibility and real need for surgery. So far, 74 surgeries have been performed for 73 Syrian and Jordanian children, with a completion percentage of 92%.

QRCS covered the costs of transportation for the patients and their families to and from the hospital. Lack of money is one of the main reasons why the patients cannot show up for hospital appointments.

Arab, Muslim leaders reject Israeli claims of 'self-defence'

AGENCIES — RIYADH

Leaders from across the Arab and Muslim world gathered in Saudi capital Riyadh yesterday to show solidarity with Palestinians and condemn the ongoing Israeli aggression.

The leaders rejected Israeli claims of "self-defence" in Gaza and demanded an immediate halt to military operations there after more than a month of war. The final statement from a summit said participants "reject describing this war as self-defence or justifying it under any pretext".

The emergency meeting of the Arab League and the Organisation of Islamic Cooperation

(OIC) came as Israel has been relentlessly bombarding the Gaza Strip since October 7.

Addressing the meeting, Saudi Crown Prince HRH Prince Mohammed bin Salman affirmed the kingdom's unequivocal rejection and condemnation of Israel's unjust war on Palestine. He described the war as "a humanitarian catastrophe that exposes the failure of the Security Council and the international community to curb the blatant Israeli violations."

He reiterated the call for an immediate cessation of military operations and the establishment of humanitarian corridors for the relief of civilians. "Thousands of innocent civilians, including children, women, and the elderly, have fallen victim, and hospitals, places of worship, and infrastructure have been destroyed," he said.

Prince Mohammed called for working together to lift the blockade by providing humanitarian and relief aid, securing medical supplies for the sick and injured in Gaza. He emphatically expressed Saudi Arabia's firm rejection of the ongoing aggression, occupation, and forced displacement of Gaza residents.

The Crown Prince asserted the Saudi position, holding the occupying authorities responsible for the crimes committed against the Palestinian people and their resources.

He said the only way to achieve security, peace, and stability in the region is to end the occupation, siege, and settlement, ensuring the legitimate rights of the Palestinian people, and establishing their independent state within the 1967 borders with East Jerusalem as its capital.

Turkish President Recep Tayyip Erdogan said at the summit that "it is a shame that Western countries, which always talk about human rights and freedoms, remain silent in the face of the ongoing massacres in Palestine".

He said the Israeli administration, which acts like the "spoiled child of the West," is obliged to compensate for the damage it has caused, Anadolu news agency reported. "Jerusalem is our red line. It is our wish that Jerusalem, known as the city of peace, and all Palestinian lands return to their old times," Erdogan said.

Iranian President Ebrahim Raisi, on his first trip to Saudi Arabia since the two countries mended ties in March, said Islamic countries should designate the Israeli army a "terrorist organisation" for its conduct in Gaza. "The US has prevented the ceasefire in Gaza and is expanding the scope of the war," Raisi said before departing from Tehran.

Syrian President Bashar Al Assad said a lack of concrete punitive measures against Israel would render the summit toothless. "If we do not have real tools for pressure, then any step we take or speech we give will have no meaning," said Assad. He said no Middle Eastern country should engage in any "political process" with Israel, including developing economic relations, until a lasting ceasefire is reached.

Palestinian president Mahmud Abbas said Washington had "the greatest influence on Israel" and "bears responsibility for the absence of a political solution" to the conflict. Raisi is the first Iranian president to visit Saudi Arabia since Mahmoud Ahmadinejad attended an OIC meeting in the kingdom in 2012. He also held a face-to-face meeting with Prince Mohammed.

Babies die at largest Gaza hospital under Israeli attacks

AFP — GAZA STRIP

Israel continued its bombing campaign in the besieged Gaza Strip yesterday, killing more than 11,000 people, mostly civilians.

Israel faced growing calls to protect civilians in Gaza as its campaign intensified around hospitals where Palestinians have sought refuge from the fighting.

The director of the besieged territory's largest hospital, Al Shifa, said the compound was struck repeatedly overnight and lost power for hours after its generator was hit.

Two premature babies in the hospital had died due to the power cuts, the group Physicians for Human Rights Israel said citing doctors on site.

"As a result of the lack of electricity, we can report that the neonatal intensive care unit has stopped working. Two premature infants have died, and there is a real risk to the lives of 37 other premature infants" at Al Shifa hospital, the Israeli doctors' group said in a statement.

Doctors Without Borders (MSF) said on X, formerly Twitter, that "the attacks against Al-Shifa Hospital have dramatically intensified. Our staff at the hospital have reported a catastrophic situation inside."

Gaza hospitals reported being under constant fire and running on nearly exhausted supplies yesterday.

"We received calls about dozens of dead and hundreds wounded in air and artillery strikes, but our ambulances weren't able to go out because of gunfire," said Al Shifa hospital director Mohammad Abu Salmiya.

The suffering in Gaza has prompted growing calls for a halt in five weeks of fighting in order to protect civilian lives and allow humanitarian aid into the densely populated territory.

Israeli tanks shooting at Gaza hospital: Palestine Red Crescent

SPUTNIK — MOSCOW: The Palestine Red Crescent Society (PRCS) said yesterday that Israeli tanks were shooting at Al Quds hospital in the Gaza Strip hosting thousands of displaced people.

S Africa summons Israeli envoy

SPUTNIK — MOSCOW: Israeli Ambassador to South Africa Eliav Belotserkovsky has been summoned over his "unfortunate conduct" amid the escalation of the Israeli-Palestinian conflict, the South African Foreign Ministry said on Friday.

"On 9 November 2023, the Department of International Relations and Cooperation (DIRCO) demarched the Ambassador of the State of Israel to South Africa, HE Mr E Belotserkovsky, to discuss the ambassador's recent unfortunate conduct relating to the unfolding, tragic Israel-Palestine war," the ministry said in a statement.

DIRCO Director-General Zane Dangor was cited as saying that Belotserkovsky had been called upon to conduct himself in line with the Vienna Conventions and convey to Israel the government's concerns about the situation in the Gaza Strip. On Monday, South African Minister in the Presidency Khumbudzo Ntshavheni said that the country would recall all diplomats from Tel Aviv for consultation.

Sudan fighting destroys strategic Khartoum bridge

AFP — WAD MADANI

A strategic Nile bridge in Sudan's capital has collapsed, the army and rival paramilitaries said in separate statements yesterday, trading blame for its destruction nearly seven months into their devastating war.

Since April, forces loyal to army chief Abdel Fattah Al

Burhan have been at war with the paramilitary Rapid Support Forces (RSF) commanded by his former deputy, Mohamed Hamdan Daglo.

Witnesses reported "clear signs of destruction on the Shambat Bridge" which crosses the White Nile and connecting Khartoum's sister cities of Khartoum North and Omdurman.

Images posted online, which AFP was unable to immediately verify, showed a section of the bridge about halfway across the river had disappeared. Vehicles, apparently damaged, lay on the part of the bridge still standing.

The army said in a statement that "the rebel militia destroyed the Shambat Bridge early this morning... adding a new crime to their record." The paramilitary force denied the accusation. In a statement, the RSF charged that "the Burhan terrorist militia... destroyed the Shambat Bridge this morning, thinking that they could defeat our brave forces." In August, airstrikes and artillery fire launched by army forces loyal to Burhan hit the Shambat Bridge.

Activists demand plastic action in Kenya

AFP — NAIROBI

Hundreds of environmental campaigners marched in the Kenyan capital Nairobi yesterday demanding drastic curbs on plastic production, ahead of a meeting to negotiate a global plastics treaty.

Representatives from more than 170 nations will meet in Nairobi from Monday to negotiate what concrete measures should be included in a binding worldwide treaty to end plastic pollution.

Marchers called for the talks to focus on cutting the amount of plastic produced and waved placards reading "Plastic crisis = climate crisis" and "End multigenerational toxic exposure".

They chanted "let polluters pay the price" as they walked slowly behind a ceremonial band from central Nairobi to a park in the west of the capital.

Nations agreed last year to finalise by 2024 a world-first UN treaty to address the scourge of plastics found everywhere from mountain tops and the deepest sea trenches to inside human blood streams.

Negotiators have met twice already but Nairobi is the first opportunity to debate a draft treaty published in September that outlines the many pathways to tackling the plastic problem.

"There is a lot of talk on end of pipe solutions which we do not need right now," Tiara Samson, an associate from the Break Free From Plastic movement, which organised the march yesterday, told AFP.

CRISIS AT SEA

Chinese vessels chase Philippine boat in high-seas

AFP — SOUTH CHINA SEA

As a Philippine Coast Guard rubber boat carrying journalists sped towards Filipino troops on a grounded navy vessel in the disputed South China Sea, three Chinese speed boats gave chase.

The high-seas pursuit near Second Thomas Shoal in the Spratly Islands on Friday ended when Philippine Navy inflatable speed boats deployed from the crumbling BRP Sierra Madre and blocked the approaching Chinese vessels.

Moments later, the Philippine Coast Guard craft carrying AFP and a local media outlet slipped into the shallow waters of the shoal.

It floated about 180m from the World War II-era BRP Sierra Madre where a handful of marines are stationed -- one of nine Philippine outposts in the hotly contested Spratlys.

The rusty hulk has been a flashpoint for Manila and Beijing since the Philippine Navy ran it aground in 1999 to check China's advance in the waters.

China claims almost the entire South China Sea and has ignored an international ruling that its stance has no legal basis.

It deploys steel-hulled ships and speed boats to patrol the waters and reefs in the sea and has built artificial islands that it has militarised to reinforce its claims. Tensions have escalated under Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos, whose administration has been increasingly vocal in criticising Chinese actions in the sea.

Resupply and rotation missions to the BRP Sierra Madre have become a frequent trigger of diplomatic spats between the countries.

The incident happened nearly three weeks after two collisions between Chinese and Philippine vessels during another resupply mission, with the countries trading blame.

The Philippine Coast Guard identified five Chinese coast guard, 28 "maritime militia" and five navy vessels floating nearby.

Grain tune: Indian PM's millet music gets Grammy nod

AFP — NEW DELHI

India's Prime Minister Narendra Modi has made an entry into the halls of global music with a song featuring him and his passion for millet nominated for a Grammy.

"Abundance In Millets" by Falu and Gaurav Shah, a tune the musicians say was "written and performed" with the prime minister, features speeches by Modi expounding the benefits of his favourite grain.

India is the world's largest producer and second-largest exporter of millet, a gluten-free grain which can grow on marginal land with limited water, and Modi's government has been working to boost its production and consumption since coming to power in 2014.

"Millets are a wonder", Falu and Shah sing, pondering "what if we could change the world?" The tune was nominated Friday in the Best Global Music Performance category, alongside six others, ranging from Nigerian Afrobeat star Burna Boy and Davido, to Mexico's Silvana Estrada and Franco-Lebanese trumpeter Ibrahim Maalouf.

Grammy-winning Indian-American singer Falguni Shah, popularly known as Falu, has said the song was a "smart idea" from Modi himself who collaborated in its making to realise his "vision" of helping overcome hunger and alleviate poverty in the world.

The song was "written and performed with Honourable Prime Minister Narendra Modi to help farmers grow millets and help end world hunger", Falu said on X in June.

Modi, 73, has called the tune "very creative" and said he believes it "will inspire more people to embrace millets for healthy living!" It was India's suggestion that the United Nations declare 2023 as the International Year of Millets, and at the G20 summit in September in New Delhi world leaders were served an all-vegetarian dinner dominated by millet. Millet was a staple food in many regions of India for thousands of years, and was eaten as porridge, flatbread, dosa pancakes and with lentils.

But the "green revolution" that started in India in the 1960s saw the production of millet fall as hybrid high-yield varieties of wheat and rice gained prominence. As a result, millet began to be seen as the food of the rural poor.

"The shared efforts of our farmers and us...will adorn India and the world's prosperity with a new radiance," Modi says in the song, in a sample from a speech.

Chinese-built railway inaugurated in Bangladesh

XINHUA—COX'S BAZAR: The Dohazari to Cox's Bazar Railway, one of the priority development projects of Bangladesh, was inaugurated here yesterday to bolster connectivity and transportation infrastructure in the South Asian country.

The 103.5-km railway, funded by the Asian Development Bank (ADB), was partly built by the China Civil Engineering Construction Corporation (CCECC) and the China Railway Group Limited (CREC). Bangladeshi Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina and Chinese Ambassador to Bangladesh Yao Wen attended the inauguration ceremony.

Prime Minister Hasina said this was the day of feeling proud. "The long wait of Cox's Bazar residents has finally come to an end. There is a longstanding demand in this region. The demand is met today," Hasina said, adding the rail link marked the beginning of a new era. Chen Yongyi, project manager of lot two, told Xinhua that the railway, which will shorten the travel time between Chattogram and Cox's Bazar from six to two hours, will become a key route of the trans-Asian railway network in Bangladesh.

Australia responds to 'cyber incident' affecting ports

AFP — SYDNEY

The Australian government said yesterday it was responding to a "significant cyber security incident" affecting several ports operated by DP World Australia that could last a number of days.

Home Affairs Minister Clare O'Neil said on social media platform X the government was coordinating a response to the incident and that authorities were working with DP World Australia "to understand the impacts".

O'Neil said the national crisis management framework employed during the Covid-19 pandemic was being used in response to the incident. DP World Australia did not respond immediately to a request for comment from AFP. However, the ports operator said in a statement quoted by The Sydney Morning Herald it had "restricted landside access to our Australian port operations while we continue our investigation" to safeguard employees, customers and its networks.

National Cyber Security Coordinator Darren Goldie said on X, formerly Twitter, that the "interruption is likely to continue for a number of days and will impact the movement of goods into and out of the country".

"DP World Australia has advised it has restricted access to its Australian port operations in Sydney, Melbourne, Brisbane and Fremantle while it investigates the incident," he said.

The Australian Cyber Security Centre, which leads the government's digital security responses, was advising the port operator and "providing technical advice and assistance", he said. The National Emergency Management Agency and National Coordination Mechanism, which streamlines a crisis response, will meet together today, Goldie said.

Pakistani police arresting Afghan women and children in crackdown, activists claim

AP — KARACHI

Pakistani police are arresting Afghan women and children in southern Sindh province as part of a government crackdown on undocumented migrants, activists said yesterday.

More than 250,000 Afghans have left Pakistan in recent weeks as the government rounded up, arrested and kicked out foreign nationals without papers. It set an Oct. 31 deadline for undocumented migrants to leave the country voluntarily.

The expulsions mostly affect Afghans, who make up the majority of foreigners living in Pakistan. Authorities maintain they are targeting all who are in the country illegally.

detain Afghan families, including women and children.

Since November 1, she and other activists have stationed themselves outside detention centers in Karachi to help Afghans. But they say they face challenges accessing the centers. They don't have information about raid timings or deportation buses leaving the port city for Afghanistan.

"They've been arresting hundreds of Afghan nationals daily since the Oct. 31 deadline, sparing neither children nor women," Kakar said.

Last December, Afghan women and children were among 1,200 people jailed in Karachi for entering the city without valid travel documents. The arrests brought criticism from around Afghanistan after images of locked-up children were circulated online.

In the latest crackdown, even Afghans with documentation face the constant threat of detention, leading many to confine themselves to their homes for fear of deportation, Kakar said. "Some families I know are struggling without food, forced to stay indoors as police officials continue arresting them, regardless of their immigration status." She highlighted the plight of refugee children born in Pakistan without proof of identity, even when their parents have papers. Minors are being separated from their families, she told The Associated Press.

ENDING PROTESTS

150 Bangladesh garment factories shut, 11,000 workers charged as police curtails protests

AFP — DHAKA

Bangladeshi garment manufacturers yesterday shuttered 150 factories "indefinitely", as police issued blanket charges for 11,000 workers in connection with violent protests demanding a higher minimum wage, officers said.

Bangladesh's 3,500 garment factories account for around 85 percent of its $55 billion in annual exports, supplying many of the world's top brands including Levi's, Zara and H&M.

But conditions are dire for many of the sector's four million workers, the vast majority of whom are women whose monthly pay, until recently, started at 8,300 taka ($75).

Violent protests demanding better pay erupted last month, with at least three workers killed and more than 70 factories ransacked or damaged since, according to police.

A government-appointed panel raised the sector's wage by 56.25 percent on Tuesday to 12,500 taka, but garment workers have rejected the hike, instead demanding a 23,000 taka minimum wage.

On Thursday, 15,000 workers clashed with police on a key highway and ransacked Tusuka, a top plant, along with a dozen other factories.

Police have filed cases against 11,000 unidentified people over the attack on Tusuka garment factory," police inspector Mosharraf Hossain told AFP.

Bangladesh police often issue primary charges against thousands of people -- without specifying their names -- following large protests and political violence, a tactic that critics say is a way to crack down on dissent.

Human rights groups have previously warned such mass cases launched against thousands of unidentified people gives police the license to target innocent protesters.

Wage protests pose a major challenge to Prime Minister

Sheikh Hasina, who has ruled the country with an iron fist since 2009.

A resurgent opposition has challenged her rule as she readies for elections due before the end of January.

Police told AFP that 150 factories had closed in the major industrial towns of Ashulia and Gazipur, both north of the capital Dhaka, as manufacturers feared further strikes when Bangladesh's working week began on Saturday.

Ally of Myanmar junta chief jailed for corruption: State media

AP — BANGKOK

A military court in Myanmar has sentenced a general who until recently was a senior member of the country's ruling council to five years in prison for abusing his authority and taking bribes, state-run media reported yesterday.

Lt. Gen. Soe Htut, who was home affairs minister as well as a member of the ruling State Administration Council, is the latest senior officer to be jailed for corruption since the army seized power from the elected government of Aung San Suu Kyi more than 2 1/2 years ago.

A report in yesterday's state-run Global New Light of Myanmar newspaper said Soe Htut abused his rank and authority by directing subordinates to issue passports to companies at their request, accepted bribes and failed to ensure that financial rules and regulations were followed for the staff welfare fund of the home affairs ministry.

ARMISTICE DAY

Thousands join pro-Palestine demonstration in London

AFP — LONDON

Huge crowds marched through the British capital yesterday, as pro-Palestinian supporters made their latest mass call for a ceasefire, with police out in force to prevent clashes with counter-protesters.

The “National March for Palestine”, organised by the Stop the War Coalition, set off after a two-minutes’ silence to remember Britain’s war dead on Armistice Day was observed at The Cenotaph war memorial in central London at 1100 GMT.

Huge crowds of protesters waved black, red, white and green Palestinian flags and held aloft placards proclaiming “Stop Bombing Gaza”, just over a month since a Hamas attack killed more than 1,200 and took some 240 people hostage, according to Israel.

Five weeks of an Israeli military campaign in response has left just over 11,000 people in Gaza dead, according to the health ministry in the coastal enclave. As the march set off, protesters shouted “free Palestine” and “ceasefire now”.

London’s Metropolitan Police has made a total of nearly 100 arrests at previous pro-Palestinian marches, including for supporting Hamas.

But yesterday’s march has generated concern because it coincides with Armistice Day, commemorating the end of fighting in World War I in 1918 — and political criticisms about the policing operation.

Prime Minister Rishi Sunak made a late plea for calm late on Friday, calling for protesters to do so “respectfully and peacefully”.

Met Police deputy assistant commissioner Laurence Taylor said march organisers had changed the route from Hyde Park to the US Embassy in south London to ensure it will not pass any landmark memorials.

Previous events have seen “small groups break away” and that “their behaviour has been escalating and becoming more violent”, Taylor, who is leading the policing operation, told reporters.

Metal barriers have been placed around the area containing the most significant memorials, and an exclusion zone created, with police able to arrest any marchers who try to breach it.

Thousands of people wearing red poppies — the symbol of remembrance — stood heads bowed at The Cenotaph on Whitehall for a solemn ceremony of reflection, with other services held up and down the country.

Minor scuffles broke out near the memorial as counter-protesters — many dressed in black with their faces covered, and some waving England’s St George’s flag and the Union Jack — tried to break through police lines. Missiles were later thrown at officers in the nearby Chinatown area, the Met said on X (formerly Twitter).

Taylor has said counter-protesters were likely to include groups of football hooligans, and police were “likely” to have to use force at some point against “pockets of confrontation”.

British media reported that Tommy Robinson, the leader of the far-right English Defence League, was among the counter-protesters.

About 1,850 police officers, including some from other forces across Britain, have been drafted in to keep the peace, with 1,375 today, when a national service of remembrance takes place at The Cenotaph led by King Charles III, senior royals and political leaders.

Home Secretary Suella Braverman, an increasingly outspoken right-winger, has done little to quell tensions, by accusing police of being more sympathetic to so-called left-wing protests than others.

Support for Palestinians is a long-standing policy of the British political left.

The government was also at odds with the Met this week, with ministers calling for the march to be banned, sparking concern over political interference in operational matters.

Sunak said he would hold Met Police commissioner Mark Rowley “accountable” for his decision to allow the demonstration to go ahead.

Rowley has said, however, that it does not meet the threshold for requesting a rare government order to stop it going ahead.

Macron: Israeli strikes in Gaza have no legitimacy

SPUTNIK — MOSCOW

French President Emmanuel Macron said on Friday Israel’s strikes on the Gaza Strip have no reason or legitimacy and must be stopped.

Earlier, Macron stated the need to financially support the Middle East countries to prevent them from being drawn into the Palestinian-Israeli conflict.

“De facto — today, civilians are bombed — de facto. These babies, these ladies, these old people are bombed and killed. So there is no reason for that and no legitimacy. So we do urge Israel to stop,” Macron told the BBC.

He said there is no other solution for Gaza than a humanitarian pause and a ceasefire.

Polish nationalists organise march in capital Warsaw

AP — WARSAW

Thousands of people walked through Warsaw yesterday in a march organised by nationalist groups as Poland celebrated its Independence Day holiday, 105 years after the nation regained its statehood at the end of World War I.

Participants carried Poland’s white-and-red flag and some burned flares as they marched along a route leading from the city centre to the National Stadium.

While many patriotic events take place across the nation of 38 million each year, the yearly Independence March has come to dominate news coverage because it has sometimes been marred by xenophobic slogans and violence.

This year’s event was attended by some 40,000 and passed off peacefully, the Warsaw mayor, Rafal Trzaskowski, said.

Spain’s acting PM signs new deals with small parties

AP — MADRID

Spain’s Socialist party on Friday wrapped up deals with a bunch of small parties to ensure acting Prime Minister Pedro Sánchez has enough parliamentary support to be reelected, possibly next week.

The accords follow weeks of intense negotiations and highlighted the Socialists’ ability to reach agreements with parties across the country despite having finished second place in July 23 elections with only 121 parliamentary seats in the 350-seat Parliament.

Sánchez and the Socialists on Friday signed agreements with the Basque Nationalist Party and a Canary Island coalition that mean that Sánchez should be able to count on the support of 179 legislators, three more than the 176 majority required in Parliament to be chosen as the next prime minister. Sánchez has been in office since 2018.

The president of the parliament is expected to set a date for an investiture debate and vote within the next few days.

Probably the biggest and potentially most damaging deal was struck Thursday with a fringe Catalan separatist party led by fugitive former Catalan President Carles Puigdemont that is promising the support of its seven parliament members in exchange for an amnesty for potentially thousands of people involved in the region’s failed secession bider concessions.

Details of an amnesty bill have yet to be released but it stands to benefit Puigdemont and scores of others, from minor government officials to ordinary citizens, who ran into legal trouble for their roles in Catalonia’s illegal secession attempt that brought Spain to the brink of rupture six years ago.

Spain’s courts are still trying to have Puigdemont extradited from Belgium. Given that he is considered an enemy of the state for many Spaniards, any deal that benefits him is politically toxic.

The amnesty has raised the ire of Spain’s two main opposition parties, the right-of-center Popular Party and the extreme right Vox group. It has also roused discontent in the judiciary and police unions.

Tens of thousands of people have rallied in Madrid and Barcelona against the amnesty in recent weeks.

Violence broke out late Thursday night outside the Socialist Party’s headquarters after four consecutive nights of protests. Bottles, beer cans and fireworks were thrown at a heavy police cordon, and officers moved in using batons to break up the protests and make arrests. More protests are planned for Friday and over the weekend.

Sánchez, who formerly opposed an amnesty, insists now it is needed for a return to normal political life in Catalonia and will benefit Spain.

BATTLEGROUND

Russia targets Kiev region after two months

AFP — KIEV

A missile targeted Kiev yesterday, ending nearly two months of relative calm in the Ukrainian capital, while frontline regions fended off waves of drone attacks overnight.

Ukraine is bracing for a renewed Russian aerial onslaught this winter, after systematic strikes last year targeted the country’s energy grid, leaving thousands without heating or electricity in freezing temperatures for long periods.

“After a long pause of 52 days, the enemy renewed missile attacks on Kiev,” said the head of the Kiev city military administration Sergiy Popko.

He added that the Russians had launched a missile attack on the capital yesterday morning.

AFP journalists in central Kiev heard two strong explosions and saw trails in the sky at dawn.

Air sirens sounded soon after that. Asked why the alarm had gone off after the explosion, air force spokesman Yuriy Ignat said on television that “ballistic missiles fly extremely fast and are not as visible as cruise missiles on the radars.” The air force said it was clarifying whether the capital had been targeted by an Iskander ballistic missile, or by an S-400 anti-aircraft missile.

President Volodymyr Zelenskyy said on Tuesday that Ukraine had deployed more Western air defence systems, as it braces for a second full winter of Russian attacks on energy facilities. Air defences last downed a missile in Kiev on September 21. The falling debris wounded seven people, including a child. There were no reported casualties or damage in the capital itself yesterday.

But two missiles hit a field between two settlements in the wider Kiev region, the head of the regional military administration said.

“The blast wave damaged five private residential buildings. In particular, roofs and windows were smashed,” Ruslan Kravchenko said.

Other regions of Ukraine meanwhile fended off drone attacks overnight. The air force said it downed 19 of the 31 attack drones launched by Moscow between Friday evening and yesterday 3am (0100 GMT).

“The Russian occupants sent most of the attack UAVs to the frontline areas,” it said.

It added Russia used several missiles overnight, but did not specify if any of them were downed.

Ukraine warned it may attack Russian oil and gas infrastructure if Moscow repeats its campaign of strikes on energy infrastructure over the winter.

Energy Minister German Galushchenko said it “would be fair” to target Russia’s oil and gas infrastructure if Ukraine’s power grid came under sustained attacks, in an interview with Politico.

On the ground, Ukrainian forces are facing assaults from Russian troops around the eastern frontline town of Avdiivka.

“Our servicemen and women are steadfastly holding the line in the Avdiivka sector,” Ukrainian army commander Oleksandr Tarnavskyy said.

Croatia’s defence minister badly injured in car crash

AP—ZAGREB: CROATIA’S defence minister was seriously injured in a car crash early yesterday in which another person died, officials said.

The accident happened around 6am on a road in eastern Croatia. Minister Mario Banozic, 44, was driving a car that was in collision with a van, Croatia’s Defence Ministry and the state HRT television reported. The van driver was killed in the crash.

“We are expressing our condolences to the family of the person who was killed,” government spokesman Marko Milic said on the X platform, formerly known as Twitter.

Milic added that Banozic’s condition is not life-threatening, though he suffered serious injuries. Doctors said he had head and brain contusions and remains under observation, but he is conscious.

Germany to scale back refugee security checks

SPUTNIK — MOSCOW: The German Interior Ministry will scale back security checks currently in place for refugees and end the head count to streamline the process, German media reported yesterday.

An internal memo circulated at the Federal Office for Migration and Refugees (BAMF) said there should be fewer ID checks going forward, the Bild daily newspaper reported. It will also ban analysis of mobile phone data for citizenship identification and run fewer checks on refugees in EU databases.

The measures have reportedly been agreed on by the Interior Ministry and BAMF, which said it had received the highest number of asylum requests since 2016. The federal office said that 31,887 first-time applications were made in Germany in October.

31 hurt in suspected gas blast at Italian migrant centre

AFP—ROME :A suspected gas explosion partially brought down a building housing asylum seekers in central Italy overnight injuring 31 people, firefighters said yesterday.

A video published by the fire service showed sections of the two-storey building in San Lorenzo Nuovo, near Viterbo, reduced to rubble after the blast which occurred shortly before midnight. The fire service said there had been an “explosion and partial collapse” of the building it described as a reception centre, “probably as a result of a gas leak”.

Thirty-one people had been confirmed injured, it said, after rescue searches that included the use of sniffer dogs. One person was in a serious condition.

Iceland evacuates town over fears of volcano eruption

AP — LONDON

Residents of a fishing town in southwestern Iceland left their homes yesterday after increasing concern about a potential volcanic eruption caused civil defence authorities to declare a state of emergency in the region.

Police decided to evacuate Grindavik after recent seismic activity in the area moved south towards the town and monitoring indicated that a corridor of magma, or semi-molten rock, now extends under the community, Iceland’s Meteorological Office said. The town of 3,400 is on the Reykjanes Peninsula, about 50km southwest of the capital, Reykjavik.

“At this stage, it is not possible to determine exactly whether and where magma might reach the surface,” the Meteorological Office said.

Authorities also raised their aviation alert to orange, indicating an increased risk of a volcanic eruption. Volcanic eruptions pose a serious hazard to aviation because they can spew highly abrasive ash high into the atmosphere, where it can cause jet engines to fail, damage flight control systems and reduce visibility.

A major eruption in Iceland in 2010 caused widespread disruption to air travel between Europe and North America, costing airlines an estimated $3bn as they cancelled more than 100,000 flights.

The evacuation comes after the region was shaken by hundreds of small earthquakes every day for more than two weeks as scientists monitor a buildup of magma some 5km underground.

Concern about a possible eruption increased in the early hours of Thursday when a magnitude 4.8 earthquake hit the area, forcing the internationally known Blue Lagoon geothermal resort to close temporarily.

The seismic activity started in an area north of Grindavik where there is a network of 2,000-year-old craters, geology professor Pall Einarrson, told Iceland’s RUV. The magma corridor is about 10km-long and spreading, he said.

ELECTION INTERFERENCE CASE

Trump pushes for broadcasting his federal trial

WASHINGTON — AP

Donald Trump is pushing for his federal election interference trial in Washington to be televised, joining media outlets that say the American public should be able to watch the historic case unfold.

Federal court rules prohibit broadcasting proceedings, but The Associated Press and other news organizations say the unprecedented case of a former president standing trial on accusations that he tried to subvert the will of voters warrants making an exception.

The Justice Department is opposing the effort, arguing that the judge overseeing the case does not have the authority to ignore the long-standing nationwide policy against cameras in federal courtrooms. The trial is scheduled to begin on March 4.

Lawyers for Trump wrote in court papers filed late Friday that all Americans should be able to observe what they characterize as a politically motivated prosecution of the Republican front-runner for his party's presidential nomination in 2024. The defense also suggested Trump will try to use the trial as a platform to repeat his unfounded claims that the 2020 election that he lost to Democrat Joe Biden was stolen from him. Trump has pleaded not guilty.

"President Trump absolutely agrees, and in fact demands, that these proceedings should be fully televised so that the American public can see firsthand that this case, just like others, is nothing more than a dreamt-up unconstitutional charade that should never be allowed to happen again," Trump's lawyers wrote.

Trump's political fortunes. Trump is accused of illegally scheming to overturn the election results in the run-up to the violent riot at the US Capitol on January 6, 2021, by his supporters.

Trump has repeatedly sought to delay the Washington trial date until after the 2024 election. But U.S. District Judge Tanya Chutkan, who was nominated for the bench by Democratic President Barack Obama, appears determined to keep it as scheduled.

On Friday in Florida, US District Judge Aileen Cannon, who is handling the separate classified documents prosecution of Trump, pushed back multiple deadlines in a way that makes it highly unlikely that case can proceed to trial in May, as had been planned. Trump is facing dozens of felony counts under the Espionage Act. He has pleaded not guilty.

"It would be a great loss if future generations of Americans were forever deprived of being able to access and view the events of this trial even years after the verdict, which would immeasurably improve the ability of future journalists and historians to retell accurately and meaningfully analyze this unique chapter of American history," Rebecca Blumenstein, president of editorial for NBC News, wrote in a court filing.

The Justice Department has said that knowledge that cameras are in the courtroom can affect lawyers and witnesses in "subtle ways" and lead to grandstanding. Noting the "ever-increasing acrimony in public discourse," prosecutors said witnesses who testify on camera may also be harassed or threatened.

Colombia detains four in kidnapping of footballer's father

AFP — BOGOTÁ

Police in Colombia have detained four people suspected in the kidnapping of the father of Liverpool footballer Luis Diaz, who was held hostage for nearly two weeks by members of the ELN guerilla group, officials said yesterday.

Luis Manuel Diaz was freed Thursday, 12 days after being abducted by armed men on motorcycles at a gas station in the town of Barrancas near the Venezuelan border.

"We have detained four people allegedly responsible for the kidnapping of Luis Manuel Diaz," the National Police of Colombia said in a statement on social media platform X.

According to the authorities, three of the suspects are members of a gang known as Los Primos or, alternatively, Los Primates, which handled the "logistics of the kidnapping" for ELN.

ELN, which is in peace negotiations with the government and is party to an ongoing six-month ceasefire, has described the kidnapping by one of its units as a "mistake." Two men with the nicknames "Marlon" and "El Negro" were arrested at dawn yesterday in the municipality of Maicao in northern Colombia.

Another suspect, alias "Arenca," had been detained on October 31 in neighboring Barrancas, the prosecutor's office said in a statement.

Police found two firearms hidden in a piece of furniture in the home of one of the suspects. The name of the fourth suspect was not revealed.

The elder Diaz's wife Cilenis Marulanda was kidnapped together with him on October 28, but was rescued hours later.

On Thursday, after days of intense negotiations, the rebels handed Diaz over to humanitarian workers at an undisclosed location in the Serrania del Perija mountain range. He was then flown by helicopter to the city of Valledupar, some 90km from his hometown.

Hours later, he arrived by car to neighbours celebrating with drums and trumpet music outside his home, which was under police guard.

The abduction threatened to derail high-stakes peace negotiations between the ELN and the government of leftist President Gustavo Petro.

On Friday, Diaz told reporters he hoped his release was a step toward "peace in Colombia, so that everyone, and all the hostages, will have a chance to be free." Luis Manuel Diaz was the founder and amateur coach of the only football academy in Barrancas, where his son showed promise from a very young age.

Known locally as "Mane," Diaz Sr is credited with aiding the meteoric rise of the Liverpool and Colombia striker.

On Friday he said he had been held by two different groups during the kidnapping.

"I felt a change after three days, when it seemed that I was already in the hands of the ELN. They spoke to me differently and treated me differently," he told reporters.

Speaker believes not enough evidence to impeach Biden

SPUTNIK—WASHINGTON: US House Speaker Mike Johnson believes that lawmakers lack sufficient evidence at the moment to launch official impeachment proceedings against President Joe Biden, The Washington Post reported, citing people familiar with Johnson's statements at a closed-door House Republican meeting.

Johnson told fellow House Republicans that they lack enough evidence at this time to begin impeaching Biden for alleged criminal activity, the report said on Friday.

In September, then-House Speaker Kevin McCarthy approved an impeachment inquiry into alleged bribery and influence peddling involving the Biden family. Biden has dismissed the allegations, claiming to have never discussed foreign business deals with his son, Hunter Biden.

Johnson said earlier this month that lawmakers will "very soon" reach a decision on whether to move forward with the impeachment process. The inquiry was an important due-process step, he said.

However, Johnson does not consider impeaching Biden an imperative due to the incumbent president's poor polling performances ahead of the 2024 US presidential election, the report said.

Virginia Democrats nominate state's first Black speaker

AP—RICHMOND: VIRGINIA'S state House will soon have its first Black speaker in its more than 400-year history after the chamber's incoming Democratic majority yesterday chose Del Don Scott to serve in the post.

Scott was unanimously elected speaker-designee by the House Democratic Caucus, the group said in a news release. The full House of Delegates will vote to officially confirm him on the first day of the 2024 legislative session.

"Virginia voters sent a resounding message on Tuesday that they wanted a Commonwealth that moved forward and that is exactly what I intend to do as your next Speaker," Scott said in a statement.

Democrats not only flipped control of the House of Delegates in Tuesday's legislative elections but also held their majority in the state Senate, dashing Gov Glenn Youngkin and fellow Republicans' hopes of securing a GOP trifecta.

The outcome means at least two more years of divided government. While Democrats will need to work with Youngkin to secure his support for legislation, they will be able to move without him in some areas, like judicial elections and beginning the years-long process of initiating constitutional amendments.

A US Navy veteran and trial lawyer from Portsmouth with a quick wit, Scott has seen a meteoric rise in power among Virginia Democrats since he was first elected in 2019.

FBI seizes phone of New York Mayor amid fundraising probe

NEW YORK — THE WASHINGTON POST

New York Mayor Eric Adams had his electronic devices, including phones, seized by FBI agents Monday, according to the mayor's campaign attorney. The seizures are connected to a federal investigation into fundraising during his 2021 campaign.

"As a former member of law enforcement, I expect all members of my staff to follow the law and fully cooperate with any sort of investigation - and I will continue to do exactly that," Adams said.

Adams's attorney, Boyd Johnson, told The Washington Post that Johnson was not accused of "any wrongdoing." The FBI declined to comment Friday night.

The seizures, first reported by the New York Times, occurred while the former police captain was leaving an event, according to Johnson, and came days after FBI agents searched the Brooklyn home of Adams's top fundraiser, Brianna Suggs, on November 2.

That day, the mayor's team notified investigators that it had knowledge of another individual acting inappropriately, a person with knowledge of the events said Friday, on the condition of anonymity to discuss sensitive dealings. The person could not say who that individual was or what conduct was deemed inappropriate.

In a statement, Johnson said the "behavior was immediately and proactively reported to investigators." Adams's team believes the information it volunteered precipitated the FBI's request for devices. Several devices were taken Monday and others were surrendered later when Adams notified authorities that there were more. Adams's passwords were given voluntarily to federal investigators, the person also said.

After the search of Suggs's home, Vito Pitta, a lawyer for Adams's 2021 campaign, told The Post in a statement that the mayor had not been contacted as part of the inquiry but that the campaign was complying with the investigation.

Mexico's ruling party names gubernatorial candidates, but questions remain about unity

AP— MEXICO CITY

Mexico's ruling party yesterday named its candidates for eight governorships and the mayorship of Mexico City.

But after ruling out the most popular candidate for the capital, questions remain about whether the party can avoid desertions.

For the moment, former capital police chief Omar Garcia Harfuch - who won polls on the city race but was knocked out by a gender quota requiring a female candidate - told local media he had no plans to leave the party.

"We will always respect the gender quotas and the decision of our party," Garcia Harfuch wrote in his social media accounts.

The Morena party, founded by charismatic President Andrés Manuel López Obrador, is made up of disparate elements united only by López Obrador's outsized personality, but he cannot be reelected and leaves office in ten months.

Morena already announced its nominee for the presidential race: former Mexico City mayor Claudia Sheinbaum, who is seen as an unquestioningly faithful follower of the president.

Garcia Harfuch gained fame as a tough and effective Mexico City police chief after he survived a 2020 ambush attack by the Jalisco drug cartel on a street in the capital. The brazen attack left him with three bullet wounds, while his two bodyguards and a bystander were killed.

Because the capital is so large - at over 9 million inhabitants - the post is considered a governorship, and has been a launching pad for the presidency in the past.

But the nomination went to Clara Brugada, the borough president of a rough stretch of low-income neighborhoods on the city's east side. Brugada was preferred by the leftist wing of Morena because she built "utopias" - sports and cultural complexes - in neighbourhoods where past administrations focused on the bare-bones issues of drainage, policing and chaotic transportation networks.

A top contender for the Morena presidential nomination, former Foreign Affairs Secretary Marcelo Ebrard, is expected to announce his next move Monday.

Actors union explains AI guardrails in strike deal with studios

AFP — LOS ANGELES

From computer-generated "extras" to AI "zombies," new restrictions against the use of artificial intelligence in Hollywood were set out by the actors' union Friday.

The Screen Actors Guild (SAG-AFTRA) reached a deal with studios like Disney and Netflix this week to end its nearly four-month strike. Its board members on Friday voted 86 percent in favour of ratifying the agreement.

Besides a seven percent minimum pay increase, and a new $40m-per-year fund to transfer a portion of revenues for hit shows from studios to actors, AI guardrails were a key part of talks.

The deal "allows the industry to go forward -- it does not block AI," SAG-AFTRA negotiator Duncan Crabtree-Ireland told a press conference.

"But it makes sure that performers are protected. Their rights to consent are protected. Their rights to fair compensation and their rights to employment are protected." Studios have been experimenting with AI in recent years, from bringing deceased movie stars back using realistic "digital replicas," to using computer-generated background figures to reduce the number of actors needed for battle scenes.

Many cost-cutting producers want a growing role for AI, and have begun requiring some performers to take part in high-tech 3D "body scans" on set, often without explaining how or when the images will be used.

But now, an actor must be paid the same rate for any use of their digital replica as they would have earned doing the same "amount of work" on set themselves in real life, Crabtree-Ireland said.

Amid fears that background workers -- or "extras" -- could be the first to lose their jobs to AI, strict curbs have been put in place.

"No use of a digital replica can be used to evade engagement and payment of a background actor under this contract," he said.

Studios must gain consent from an actor every time their digital replica is used in any film or TV episode. They cannot present actors with boilerplate contracts entitling them to use a replica in perpetuity, but must instead provide a "reasonably specific description" of how it will be used each time.

SAG-AFTRA president Fran Drescher said it was vital to nail down rules this time, because "in the world of AI, three months is equivalent to a year."

Qatar-Indonesia Year of Culture marks 'golden moment' in cultural relations

JOELYN BALUYUT
THE PENINSULA

The Head of Socio-Culture Division at the Embassy of Indonesia in Qatar, Ali Murtado, highlighted that the Qatar-Indonesia Year of Culture (YoC) has marked a "golden moment" in the cultural ties between the two countries.

The Year of Culture initiative, launched in 2012, serves as a platform for diverse exchange programmes, fostering collaboration between Qatar and a chosen partner nation each calendar year. For 2023, Indonesia is the Southeast Asian country collaborating with Qatar, bringing forth a wealth of creative, cultural, and artistic exchanges.

Ali Murtado, also the Person-In-Charge for Qatar-Indonesia YoC, highlighted the immense potential and benefits of cultural cooperation between the two diverse and culturally rich nations. "Through various cultural exchanges and promotions, this initiative will undoubtedly strengthen the relationship between Qatar and Indonesia, particularly among the people."

Ali Murtado

Various activities and events have been conducted for the said programme, the latest of which include a series of engaging events - storytelling sessions, cultural games, workshops, and exploration opportunities held at the Qatar National Library, and the opening of the "Growing Kopi, Drinking Qahwa: Stories of Coffee in Qatar and Indonesia" exhibit at the National Museum of Qatar.

Reflecting on the impact of the Qatar-Indonesia Year of Culture, Murtado noted its catalysing effect on bilateral relations.

He pointed out a key aspect involving literary collaboration, where both countries collaborated to translate children's books between Arabic and Indonesian. The result has been the distribution of 1,000 reading packages, introducing the young minds of both nations to each other's cultures.

"This literary connection not only enhances mutual understanding but also broadens the cultural horizons of young minds."

Murtado expressed optimism about the enduring impact of the year-long programme, stating: "I believe that the Qatar-Indonesia Year of Culture initiative is not merely a one-year celebration but rather the beginning of a robust and enduring partnership."

He outlined future priorities, including sports-friendly matches, training sessions, voluntary activities, and exhibitions in fashion and art, all aimed at maintaining and deepening the cultural connections established during this cultural exchange.

Saving Brazil's golden monkey, one green corridor at a time

AP — RIO DE JANEIRO

Dozens of young people kneeled under the scorching sun this week in Rio de Janeiro's rural interior, planting a green corridor that will be a future safe passageway for an emblematic and endangered species, the golden lion tamarin.

The 300 tree seedlings they planted this week - only inches tall at present - will eventually connect two patches of forest together. It is the latest in a series of incremental forest growth initiatives driven by environmentalists, providing an ever-larger habitat for the monkey.

Until recently, the bare and dry land they were replanting belonged to a ranch owner who had torn down its trees for cattle pasture.

Rampant deforestation over centuries has decimated this part of Brazil's Atlantic Forest, the only place in the world where the small, copper-colored monkey whose face is framed by a silken mane can be found. With fewer than 5,000 individuals, it is considered an endangered species.

"One of the biggest problems is the fragmentation of the forest," said Luis Paulo Ferraz, executive director of the Golden Lion Tamarin Association, known by its Portuguese acronym AMLD. Ferraz says monkeys are too scared to cross the few hundred meters of bare land that sometimes separate two isles of green vegetation, fearing they might become the prey of larger predators, such as big cats. Hence the need for green corridors.

Before colonization by the Portuguese in the 16th century, the Atlantic forest biome covered 330 million acres (more than 500,000 square miles) near and along Brazil's coast. Less than 15% of that remains today, according to The Nature Conservancy.

In the specific region of the Atlantic forest where golden lion tamarins can be found, the forest is down to just 2% of its original size, Ferraz said.
