QA travellers’ number rises by over 20% in 5 years

SAACH KUMAR
THE PENINSULA

The number of passengers travelling through Qatar Airways has surged by over 20 percent in the last five years, reflecting soaring popularity of the airline.

The flag carrier of Qatar carried 32.4 million passengers in 2019-20 compared to 26.65 million passengers in 2015-16, showing a growth of around 22 percent, according to annual reports of the airline.

The airline has delivered stellar performance by overcoming major challenges such as illegal airspace blockade imposed since 2017 by siege countries and COVID-19 outbreak that has posed an existential threat to many airlines.

Qatar Airways has become the first choice for millions of passengers across the globe driven by network expansion, latest aircraft and several customer-centric measures taken by the airline.

The illegal blockade could not prevent the airline from launching flights to a number of high-profile destinations. Despite the challenging backdrop in financial year 2017-18, the airline opened 14 new destinations, connecting to passengers to more exciting business and leisure hot spots around the world.

Qatar Airways brand has not only grown in size in the past year, but has grown also in terms of quality of brand equity. "Going beyond the prior perception of Qatar Airways as a purely premium and luxury airline, travellers began to see the airline as one that shares passenger values, as well as offering a superior product," said the airline in its annual report 2019-20. In order to give passengers more choices, Qatar Airways has also forged strategic alliances through codeshare agreements with major airlines.

Qatar Airways performances during COVID-19 outbreak has further increased travellers’ confidence in the airline.

The aircraft repositioned over 1.8 million passengers on 13,000 passenger and charter flights during the first eight weeks of the COVID-19 crisis.

The Ministry of Municipality and Environment (MME) to attract citizens for specialised jobs

THE PENINSULA
— Doha

The Minister of Municipality and Environment, HE Abdullah bin Abdulaziz bin Turki Al Subaie has directed departments of the Ministry to attract Qatari citizens for specialised and technical jobs to enhance their competitiveness in local job market.

Addressing the concluding ceremony of the First Annual Planning Forum of the Ministry of Municipality and Environment (MME) yesterday, the Minister emphasised on making room for new generations of officials and employees in the administrative units of the Ministry enabling them to take the responsibilities.

He pointed out that it was needed to focus on professional development through specialised training programs to fill any shortage in this type of job.

At the six-day forum organised by the Planning and Quality Department at MME, the plans and projects of support activities and resources for the Shared Services Affairs sector were reviewed and discussed.

The Minister stressed the importance of the role that the Shared Services Affairs Department plays as it is the main engine of the Ministry.

Hamad Medical Corporation (HMC) has launched a new website with practical healthy ageing and care information for older people, in connection with the International Day of Older Persons.

The microsite, which can be accessed through the homepage of HMC’s website (hmc.org.qa), is the first resource of its kind in the country and is intended to be a trusted source for up-to-date information and advice on health and ageing.

According to Dr. Hamad Al Hamad, National Lead for Healthy Ageing and Medical Director of Rumaila Hospital and Qatar Rehabilitation Institute (QRI), the need for medical services for elderly patients has grown alongside the need to generate preventive measures to support healthy ageing.

“One elderly citizens are a growing, valuable, and vibrant resource in our community,” the National Health Strategy (2018–2022) therefore includes a focus on healthy ageing that aims to improve health by creating the right conditions for older people to increase their active life years, stay well, and live at a home wherever possible,” said Dr. Al Hamad.

“This website is an important contribution to HMC’s comprehensive plan for enhancing care for the elderly,” it includes healthcare education and information about geriatric service organizations that have been designed to support our elderly citizens. It is one element in our strategic and innovative approach to managing disease and promoting health and wellbeing among older adults,” added Dr. Al Hamad.

According to the UN, the global number of persons aged 65 or over in 2009 was 703 million. This number is projected to double within the next three decades, reaching 1.5 billion persons in 2050. The year 2020 marks the 30th anniversary of the International Day of Older Persons, which is observed such year on October 1. People aged differently depending on their genetic makeup with white. While we cannot change our genes, we can make healthy lifestyle choices that will influence the state of our health and well-being as we age. Starting from when we are in our 40s, we can adopt simple measures that will help our physical and mental health, as both are closely linked. Staying physically and mentally active with family and friends, eating healthy, avoiding smoking and harmful alcohol use, and keeping healthy blood pressure screenings are all important measures for our healthy future," added Dr. Al Hamad.

The cultural and artistic scene in Qatar: Rooted creativity and outstanding presence

The cultural and artistic scene in Qatar

Reduction and fostering of the spirit of creativity and the key role of cultural institutions in Qatar

The cultural and artistic scene in Qatar has been developing over the years, enhanced by the implementation of projects that have contributed to its growth and development. Doha Art Week and Qatar Museums, which host cultural and artistic events, have played their part in achieving this goal.

In Doha Art Week, Qatar presents a platform for contemporary artists from different countries to exhibit their works, achieving great success in the world of contemporary art. Through this platform, contemporary artists have the opportunity to express their creativity and showcase their innovative ideas, which may contribute to the advancement of the art world.

The Qatar Fine Arts Society is another platform for contemporary artists to present their works, in addition to its support for cultural and artistic initiatives and the organization of cultural and artistic events.

The Qatar Fine Arts Society, as a private institution, seeks to realize creativity as a main pillar of the State’s identity, a mechanism to affirm the role of art in the development process, and a way to meet the contemporary cultural challenges. The organization is known for its numerous initiatives and the support it provides to contemporary artists in order to nurture their creativity, share their ideas, and achieve their goals in the art world.

Meanwhile, Katara, the Center of Music Affairs in Qatar, has expanded its initiatives, which are dedicated to performing classical music, contemporary music, and both its national and international cultural heritage.

The most important state institutions which are concerned with sponsoring fine artists in the State of Qatar are the Ministry of Culture and Sports, the Cultural Village Foundation Katara and Qatar Fine Arts Society, in addition to a number of academic and private institutions whose efforts are all combined to consolidate the presence of the Qatar Fine Art on the global art scene.

The Qatar Fine Arts Society, as an independent institution, seeks to become a cultural institution that is able to consolidate the presence of the Qatar Fine Art on the global art scene.

India's prime minister said nationwide lockdown in March was the first step to contain the spread of COVID-19, "but it was far from perfect. The announcement last month caused the government to come under criticism for the delay in the lockdown, which was announced without consulting the states."

"It was a significant moment in the country's response to the pandemic. The lockdown was widely praised for its effectiveness, but it also had a major impact on the economy."

"The lockdown was extended to cover more than 1 billion people in the country. It is the largest lockdown in the world and has been effective in containing the spread of the virus," said Dr. Mohammad Shahnawaz, a retired virologist. "It has helped bring down the daily cases and deaths, and we hope to see a further decline in the coming weeks."

"The lockdown has also helped to improve public hygiene and awareness about the importance of wearing masks and maintaining social distancing," said Dr. Shameem Danish.

As of today, there have been more than 100,000 confirmed deaths, with more than 1 million people already infected with the virus. The Indian government announced a phased lockdown in May to gradually ease the restrictions and resume economic activities.

"We are now in the middle of the second wave of the pandemic, but we are better prepared and equipped this time," said Dr. Sanjay Kundu, the police chief of Himachal Pradesh.

"We have put our entire energy in developing our healthcare system to combat the virus. The country hasn't seen wars, floods, and bridges and tunnels built this way, the prime minister said after inaugurating the tunnel Saturday."

"Besides localities, infrastructures will also hugely benefit from our new engineering."

"We have made it to the last four in the last four years, so this year it will be even harder," said a opponent from the main opposition Congress party.

"There are a few special cases where we have seen a spike in cases, but these are under control," said Dr. Danish. "We are working on implementing the lockdown and ensuring that everyone follows the protocols."

"We are working towards a gradual reopening of the country, but we need to continue with the lockdown for a few more days," said Dr. Danish.

Cambodia has demolished a US-built facility on the country’s largest naval base, according to images published by an American think tank on Friday. The move comes as concern in Washington about China’s rising influence in the region. The US has increasingly called for the release of the arrest warrants to the former prime minister. The Taliban did not immediately claim responsibility on his behalf, but they have many friends in the party's leadership. Salvini migrant case delayed to November 20

As an Italian judge ruled against charges for far-right leader Matteo Salvini, he was illegally detained as migrants were taken from a ship in the port of Nice January 20. The judge decided to dismiss charges against him and his former interior minister, Luigi Di Maio, for allegedly abusing their powers as then-interior minister to block migrants from disembarking in Italy for 11 days in 2019.

Police have a maximum of 48 hours to decide if they will release Salvini or extend his detention. The opposition leader has been in jail since May, when he was arrested during the trial hearing in the port of Catania.

Salvini's defence counsel said the trial was in an “unnecessary” stage in which the prosecution is trying to prove the case against him.

Salvini had vowed to “plead not guilty” at his trial and has said he will fight the charges.

Germany expects EU to impose sanctions against Russia

Navalny emerged from a coma in early September after suddenly falling ill during a flight in Siberia on August 20 and later being airlifted to Berlin for treatment. German doctors said he was poisoned with Novichok, a Russian nerve agent.

School and EU sanctions against Russia should include Nord Stream 2. Navalny’s September 23 death will mean there will be fewer than 100 European politicians still willing to support the project, half of them in Eastern Europe.

As many European countries would suffer from construction freeze, “Maas said.

People, some wearing face masks to protect against the coronavirus disease, visit the Northern River Terminal, a popular Moscow landmark built in the Stalinist Empire style in 1937 as part of the Moskva-Volga Canal and reopened after a major renovation in the beginning of September, on the outskirts of Moscow, on Friday.

A visitor wearing a face mask casts his ballot at a polling station during the country's regional and Senate elections in Prague, Czech Republic.

Biden says masks not about being a ‘tough guy’

AP — GRAND RAPIDS

Democratic presidential nominee Joe Biden tweeted Saturday that wearing a mask is “not about being a tough guy,” amid criticism of the Republican President for wearing a mask at his Memorial Day speech last week.

Biden’s comments came after President Donald Trump’s coronavirus diagnosis rekindled criticism about his handling of the pandemic, with some political observers saying Trump’s attendance at events and his failure to wear a mask suggests he is more concerned with being photographed than addressing the health crisis.

As the White House works to resolve and improve its handling of the coronavirus, including testing and the use of medical oxygen, which is authorised for use in hospitalised COVID-19 patients.

Doctors have administered supplemental oxygen, Conley said. Trump refused to say whether the President is on oxygen, despite repeated questions.

None at this moment. And yes, the doctor and I have discussed it. We will make a decision one way or the other as to what is best.

Biden said that Trump’s symptoms fall into the nasopharyngeal category, which is not “an exceptionally good” sign.

Through its participation in the forecasting the coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic, Qatar Care has achieved 19,748 hours of voluntary work from March until September this year, as part of its participation in the Ministry of Public Health (MPH).

The achievement indicates the close cooperation between the private and public sectors in Qatar’s health sector and the constant coordination of efforts to fight such a global pandemic.

Dr. Hussain Al-Badi, Qatar Care Executive Director, said that since it was founded in the fight against COVID-19 in March, the company has carried out almost all private vehicles across all the company’s departments for the same purpose, besides donating quilts and underwear for social needs. Additionally, the company has carried out more than 400,000 medical and public health efforts to achieve the best healthcare, adding that ICON will work with Nasa’s Human Exploration and Operations Mission (HEOM) to design, develop, and demonstrate a variety of habitation, life support, medical, communication, and other systems. ICON will be based in Huntsville, Alabama, under the auspices of the Commercial Lunar Payload Services (CLPS) program, which aims to increase the commercial participation in the space exploration industry.
